

AVOCADO

Av - o-ca - do, av - o-ca - do is the name of the game. If you mess up the game, you

PALM PUSH
CLAP BOTH
CLAP L
CLAP R
CLAP OWN

have to change your name. A, B, C, D,

PALM PUSH
CLAP BOTH
CLAP L
CLAP R
CLAP OWN

E, F, G, H, I, J,

PALM PUSH
CLAP BOTH
CLAP L
CLAP R
CLAP OWN

K, L, M, N, O, P,

PALM PUSH
CLAP BOTH
CLAP L
CLAP R
CLAP OWN

AVOCADO

Q, R, S, T, U, V

W, X, Y, Z!

PALM PUSH CLAP BOTH
CLAP L
CLAP R
CLAP OWN

Contributed by L. Way, Southern United States.

- * Game continues until someone makes a mistake in the clapping game; person who made the mistake is either called “avocado” for 10 minutes, or they choose a new name from the letter they made a mistake on; for “L” they could be called “Lily,” “Lucy,” “Leon,” for the next 10 minutes.
- * One of my students just HAD to teach me this one; her cousin from Louisiana had taught it to her. It quickly became a favorite of my fourth grade students and then ran rampant through the entire school. Teachers at lunch had to “ban” it as students were playing and not eating! My students can’t get enough of this game, and upper elementary students love it!

Palm Push

Teacher Tip - Think of the Palm Push as an extension of the Clap Own so that once you clap your own hands, you keep the fingertips and thumbs together and push the palm out towards partner.

